International Women's Day.

International Women's Day is a new holiday that began in the United States. It is celebrated on March 8 in honor of working women all over the world and to celebrate their achievements throughout history. It is also known as the United Nations Day for Women's Rights and International Peace. The March 8 date was chosen because on March 8, 1857, women in New York City protested the working conditions in the textile and garment industries. In remembrance of that protest the day was made a holiday in 1910.

Many countries now celebrate International Women's Day. In some countries, such as Armenia and Mongolia, this day is an official holiday where everyone has the day off from work. In China only women have the day off. Flowers are a symbol of International Women's Day. Italy, Russia and many other countries use them for decorations or as gifts for the women.
