Celebrations Around The World

Halloween

Halloween is observed in the United States and the United Kingdom on October 31. Hallow is an old word that means holy and e'en is Scottish for evening. The two words were put together and became Halloween. Some think that the origins of Halloween come from an ancient Celtic Festival called Samhain. Samhain marked the end of summer and was a time for remembering the dead. The spirits of the dead were believed to visit relatives searching for warmth and good cheer as winter got closer. It was a time when both good and evil returned to the living. Today, in the US, children go from house to house in costumes saying Trick or Treat. Children receive candy treats from the houses they visit. Black and orange can be seen everywhere during October. Orange is for the autumn and the harvest. Black is associated with death and darkness.

Question of the Week:

The word Halloween is a combination of two words, "Hallow" and "e'en". What do these two words mean?
